Other Instructions:

Arlington Pet Lodge (APL) appreciates your business and your trust in our facility. We will provide your pets with a safe, clean, and enjoyable environment for the duration of their stay with the resort however, there are a few things we need to discuss as part of our agreement to board your pet.

APL has the right to refuse service to any person or pet, at any time, for any reason. Such reasons include, aggressiveness, special-needs, or other behaviors deemed detrimental to the general boarding environment or that pose either a risk to pets, clients, or staff members, or diminish the general boarding experience for other pets. Overtly aggressive pets may be denied outright access to APL services. In addition pets receiving services that exhibit incompatible behavior may be denied access from future services. Please understand that is not a comment on your pet's worthiness, but merely a policy of what's best for all concerned. Special needs pets may incur additional fees if requiring additional services or attention. Intact (non-spayed or neutered) pets may not be allowed access to group play.

Upon entry into APL, your pet may be inspected for overt signs of ectoparasites and illness prior to admission to the kenneling area. These evaluations are performed by members of the general staff. Please note that while some veterinary services are provided at the APL facility, this fact does not mean that your animal will receive a veterinary examination of health prior to admission to the kennel. Should ectoparasites (e.g. fleas & ticks) be identified on your pet, we reserve the right to treat and isolate your pet until a time at which the pet can be identified as "ecto-free". Additional charges will likely apply for treatments and isolation.

Should attention to your pet's health be in question, by boarding your pet, you agree to abide by, and compensate for, any veterinary care your pet should require. We will attempt to contact you prior to seeking such care, however APL has your permission via this consent to proceed with seeking and initiating veterinary care as deemed necessary for your pet. You are financially responsible for any care provided to your pet, directly by APL or through its chosen veterinary care provider. If you have restrictions you wish to place on this general release for care, please notify the staff at this time.

APL will take every reasonable precautionary effort during your pets stay to protect your pet from illness, injury, weight loss, kennel cough (and/or other infectious diseases), pet to pet injuries, escape, and death. Unfortunately dogs will be dogs (and cats will be cats), and sometimes unexpected events can occur that result in pet injury, illness, or escape. APL is not responsible for any injury or illness that occurs while in our care that is beyond our control. For example, certain diseases are multifactorial (stress, age, vaccination status, etc) and APL cannot control all aspects of your pet's health. Therefore, we are not responsible for any respiratory illnesses developed during or after boarding at APL due to the multifactorial nature of these diseases. While true of any animal, senior pets and pets with known medical conditions that are boarded are at increased risk of morbidity and mortality because of concomitant factors associated with the stress of boarding. We cannot honor any do-not-resuscitate requests on senior pets.

While vaccinations are required to be current while boarding at APL, and while certain non-essential vaccines such as influenza, leptospira, etc. vaccines are advised in boarding situations, no vaccine is 100% effective in preventing disease. APL is not liable for vaccinatable conditions, as cases can occur despite vaccination.

Pets will sometimes exhibit behaviors unknown to the owner, brought on by the stress of boarding, the proximity to other animals or the new surroundings. Behavior that is atypical, such as compulsive behaviors (e.g. licking, chewing, pacing, barking, digging, jumping etc.), may result in injury to your pet, damage to the facility, or escape. APL is not liable for injury or illness to your pet as a result of such behavioral issues. You will be held financially responsible for any damages or expenses your pet directly or indirectly causes to the facility.

Similarly, pets housed together at home may not demonstrate compatibility at the pet resort. Any housemates that show signs of "cabin fever" (stress, irritability, intolerance, etc) will be separated and additional fees for separate boarding will apply.

APL reserves the right to alter or substitute a pet's food, especially when not provided in full by the owner. If something happens to food provided by the owner, APL will attempt to replace like with like. Should a dietary issue (e.g. vomiting, diarrhea) arise, the owner hereby gives APL permission to alter the food type, frequency, or amount to compensate for the issue if such measures are appropriate. For this reason, please be sure to list any food allergies or dietary restrictions on the animal's intake form.

Certain personal items (e.g a favorite toy) may be left at APL for your pets stay. While we will make every effort to care for these items, APL cannot be held responsible for damaged or misplaced items; do not leave any irreplaceable, delicate, or expensive items with the resort. Be sure you have all items and/or medication at the time of pet pickup.
